ABOUT THE SPRINGFIELD-SANGAMON COUNTY
REGIONAL PLANNING COMMISSION

ADVISING + PLANNING + EVALUATING + LEADING

WHAT IS THE SSCRPC?

The SSCRPC is the joint planning body for Sangamon County and the City of Springfield. However, along with its responsibilities to Springfield and the County, the Commission works with many other municipalities, special districts, public agencies, public-private partnerships, and not-for-profit organizations throughout the region to promote orderly growth and development.

HOW WAS IT CREATED?

The Commission in its current form was created by Sangamon County ordinance on October 6, 1987, under authority provided by the State of Illinois' Regional Planning Act. Its predecessor agencies existed well before this. The Sangamon County Planning Commission was established in March 1957, and the Springfield Plan Commission in June of that same year. By 1959 they were meeting jointly and were served by the same staff, and by 1966 the two commissions had joined forces. The creation of the SSCRPC in 1987 formalized a working relationship that has now been in existence for over 50 years.

WHAT GEOGRAPHIC AREA IS COVERED BY THE SSCRPC?

While some regional planning organizations serve multi-county areas, the SSCRPC limits its work to the needs of Springfield, Sangamon County, and its various communities.

WHAT DOES THE SSCRPC DO?

Through the work of its professional staff, the Commission provides overall planning services related to land use, transportation, recreation, the environment, economic growth, data analysis, and special projects of local and regional interest. Its specific tasks are described in its establishing ordinance but include such things as:

- Developing regional and local plans that address present and future development.
- Providing information, reports, and data related to planning and planning issues.
- Advising and consulting with government units and others on plans, projects, proposals, and policies.
- Reviewing Federal and State-funded programs affecting the Springfield Sangamon County area.

In carrying out its tasks, the SSCRPC prepares area-wide planning documents and assists the County, cities and villages, and special districts with planning activities. Each year, it conducts numerous research studies, analytic reviews, and planning projects. For example, the Commission's staff reviews all proposed Springfield and Sangamon County land divisions and developments and provides recommendations on those jurisdictions' zoning and variance requests.

The Commission also acts in regional capacities, for example, serving as the Metropolitan Planning Organization for transportation planning as part of the Springfield Area Transportation Study, or SATS. It directs the development of the Sangamon Regional Comprehensive Plan, serves as the County's Floodplain Administrator, and acts as the area's Federal A-95 review process clearinghouse.

DOES THE COMMISSION HAVE ANY REGULATORY AUTHORITY?

The SSCRPC does not have direct regulatory authority. It only has the authority provided by Springfield or Sangamon County ordinance. In most cases, its responsibility is to provide objective, professional opinions on matters before the Springfield City Council or County Board. This is the case with zoning and land development, for example. In some cases, it has a limited regulatory responsibility, as is the case when it acts as Floodplain Administrator or Plats Officer.

WHO OVERSEES THE SSCRPC?

As the name suggests, the work of the SSCRPC is overseen by a Commission made up of 17 members, including three representatives each from the Sangamon County Board and Springfield City Council, five special units of government, and six appointed citizen members from the City and County. The Commission's officers include a Chairperson, Vice-Chairperson, and Secretary, all of whom are elected by the Commission members from the six citizen members.

Some Commission activities, such as approval of its budget submission and the selection of its Executive Director, are handled by the SSCRPC's Executive Policy Board. The Executive Policy Board consists of the Commission's three officers, the Springfield Mayor and Sangamon County Board Chair, the chief presiding officer of one of the special units of government, and one member of the Commission elected at-large.

By ordinance, the Sangamon County Board's Finance Committee oversees the financial activities, including its annual budget, receipt of grant funds, contracts, and intergovernmental agreements. This oversight ensures accountability of the Commission's management regarding the collection and expenditure of revenues. Furthermore, the SSCRPC is subject to the County's annual audit in addition to an independent financial audit each year.

WHO SERVES ON THE COMMISSION?

Representation on the Commission is established by ordinance and comes from three sources:

- Elected Officials including the Chairman of the Sangamon County Board; Chairman of the County's Zoning and Land Use Committee; Chairman of the County's Finance Committee; the Mayor of Springfield; and two Springfield Aldermen nominated by the Mayor and confirmed by the City Council.
- Special district chief presiding officers representing the following special districts: Springfield Park District, Springfield Airport Authority, Springfield Mass Transit District, Springfield Metro Sanitary District, and Regional Superintendent of Schools.
- Six citizen members, with three appointed by the Chairman of the County Board and confirmed by the Board, and three citizens who are members of the City's Planning and Zoning Commission appointed by the Mayor of Springfield and approved by the City Council.

The citizen members are appointed for four-year terms, while the elected officials and special district representatives' appointments are coterminous with the terms of their elected or appointed offices.

HOW IS THE COMMISSION FUNDED?

Four sources fund the Commission's work: Sangamon County, the City of Springfield, the Illinois Department of Transportation (due to the SSCRPC's role in the Springfield Area Transportation Study), and various grants and contracts that the Commission competes for and receives.

WHO HANDLES THE DAY-TO-DAY OPERATIONS OF THE SSCRPC?

The Commission's Executive Director. He or she is appointed by the Executive Policy Board of the Commission and confirmed by the Sangamon County Board. The Executive Director also serves as County Plats Officer and County Floodplain Administrator.

HOW IS THE COMMISSION'S STAFF ORGANIZED?

Currently, the SSCRPC's staff members are organized around four functions:

- Administration
- Land Use and Environmental Planning
- Community Planning, Research, and Technology
- Transportation Planning

The largest staff commitment is in the area of Transportation Planning due to the Commission's work for the Springfield Area Transportation Study (SATS). Even so, most of the projects and tasks carried out by the Commission's staff require that they work together as a team. The development of a local comprehensive plan, for example, requires the involvement of staff from all four functional areas.

ABOUT THE SPRINGFIELD-SANGAMON COUNTY
REGIONAL PLANNING COMMISSION

ADVISING + PLANNING + EVALUATING + LEADING

WILL THE COMMISSION DO WORK OR TAKE ON PROJECTS AT THE REQUEST OF INDIVIDUAL CITIZENS OR PRIVATE FIRMS?

The Commission's work plan and staff assignments are built around the needs identified by its principal partners, the City of Springfield and Sangamon County. It also works on projects funded by other governmental bodies, such as the transportation planning work for SATS, planning assistance for a special district, or when it works with a municipality to develop a comprehensive plan.

The Commission does not usually take on work requested by individual citizens or private firms. The Regional Planning Commission is a governmental body, so its work is related to public rather than private interests. However, the Commission regularly adds tasks to its work plan that arise from suggestions made by public or private sector representatives. These suggestions often come from the various public engagement activities that the SSCRPC sponsors throughout the year.

WHAT MUST A LOCAL GOVERNMENT PAY TO BECOME INVOLVED?

Aside from the planning services that the SSCRPC staff provides to Sangamon County and the City of Springfield, the Commission is authorized to conduct activities for other local units of government, State and Federal agencies, and several other organizations. These services are often provided through grants from agencies or organizations or under contract with them. The Commission also has conducted work for private firms involved in a project supported by one of the member jurisdictions of the Commission.

HOW CAN AN INDIVIDUAL CITIZEN BECOME INVOLVED?

Citizens can become involved in SSCRPC activities in several ways aside from being appointed to the Commission by the Springfield City Council or the Sangamon County Board. Meetings of the Commission, its Executive Policy Board, and the Land Subdivision Committee are open to the public, as are meetings of SATS. The Commission often seeks citizen input on projects and surveys it is conducting.

It holds public workshops and discussions on various subjects throughout the year and provides a great deal of information on its website: www.sscrpc.com. Citizens can also request to be added to the Commission's email list.

Individuals interested in Commission activities should also check the events calendar on the SSCRPC website and the other information provided there. The information resources provided through the SSCRPC website provides current information to the public. The public can also keep up with the Commission — and the topics it is following — and its Facebook site.
